Shirdi – The Land of Sai Baba

Shirdi, also known as Sainagar, is a revered pilgrimage town in Maharashtra's Ahmednagar district. It became famous as the home of Sai Baba, a 19th-century saint known for his teachings on love, peace, and faith.

Sai Baba arrived in Shirdi around the 1850s and, over time, became a spiritual icon respected by both Hindus and Muslims. After his passing in 1918, his final resting place was established at Samadhi Mandir, now the heart of Shirdi.

Today, Shirdi welcomes around 60,000 visitors daily, making it one of India's busiest spiritual destinations. Shirdi is situated at a distance of 90km from Nashik.

Trimbakeshwar Temple

Trimbakeshwar Temple is a revered Hindu shrine located in Trimbak, near Nashik, Maharashtra. Dedicated to Lord Shiva, it is one of the twelve sacred Jyotirlingas in India. The temple is especially unique for its three-faced linga, representing the divine trinity — Brahma, Vishnu, and Shiva.

Nestled at the foot of Brahmagiri Hill, the temple marks the origin of the holy Godavari River at the sacred pond called Kushavarta. Built from black stone in the 18th century by Peshwa Balaji Bajirao, the temple is known for its exquisite architecture and spiritual ambiance.

A visit to Trimbakeshwar offers both spiritual peace and a glimpse into rich Hindu tradition. This temple town lies 30km north of Nashik.
